CLARKSBURG, W. VA., FEB. 18, 1904.

The gubernatorial question now seems to be in the hands of the candidates themselves. For while their friends had it in hand trying to figure it out who should withdraw, but since that time the candidates have gotten down to hard work, in fact, are doing most of it. They may know just where they are and what support they will receive but about all anyone else knows about it at this particular time is what they say, and every one of them says he has it sure. And there you are. The tall hustling that will be done between this and July 12 is likely to cut a figure and may change present figures considerably. In the meantime we will all content ourselves with the knowledge that a good and worthy man is going to get it.

The cold weather has had a damaging effect on business here and it is becoming somewhat perceptible. One or two things have effected commercial conditions somewhat too. But the best idea is to adapt one to the conditions and avail himself of the best. It is unwise to wait until there can be restoration along certain lines, as that may never come and even if it does some time must have elapsed. Leave those things to themselves to adjust themselves the best they can and take up new things. Go ahead with something else and situate yourself as though nothing has happened. Spring time will soon be here and that means revival of industry. Commerce should be ready to take strides with it.

Bryan has offered $100 for a Democratic platform that will suit all factions of the party. The inference from that is he does not hope himself to submit one that will meet with approval and he is quite sure no one else will dish up one acceptable to him. This foreshadows an awful row in the convention and none seems to anticipate it any keener than Mr. Bryan. There is no pacification in sight as yet and the time draws nigh. But so far as the prize money is concerned, we do not miss it, when we hint that there is a faction in the party that would gladly give Bryan $100 to keep his issue out of the platform.

Suppose some were to furnish that platform for Bryan. Then he would offer money for a candidate and finally he would feel constrained to buy an election for the poor fellow. Evidently, he has awakened to the fact that it is cold cash that counts in campaigns, and not that simple sentiment he has all along indulged in about the value of money.

The universal expression of sorrow over the demise of Marcus Alonzo Hanna shows that it is regarded as a national calamity. Men generally credit him with having more to do with the splendid industrial and commercial conditions of the country than any other man and they feel another like him in this respect will rise, and on that account his death was a sad blow to workingmen.

The action of the United Mine Workers in paying respect to Marcus Alonzo Hanna by directing all its members to cease labor the day of his funeral bears out the assertion made by the Telegram that he was the Apostle of organized labor. Perhaps, it may be many years, before another like him in this respect will arise, and on that account his death was a sad blow to workingmen.

The Salem Herald advocates the matter of nominating good, honest, clean men for office. That is the Telegram's plan exactly, so far as the Republican party is concerned, and it will not be found advocating the nomination of any other sort. Good, loyal, true blue Republicans are good enough for us. They are the sort that will win and the party should make it its business to nominate that kind.

All sorts of people get all sorts of ideas into their heads about running for office. They listen to all sorts of friends and usually find themselves in the end in all sorts of trouble.

Clarksburgers will go to minstrel shows. They are hard workers, but not the sort that believe in all work and no play. That's why minstrel shows are so popular here.

There is not the pressure or stream of water there should be in the water pipes to make the people feel secure from a big fire. It is time something is being done along this line.

Equal and just taxation has been the motto of the Telegram all along. The idea is to make every man pay his share of the tax. That done there will be no unjust burden.

And Colonel Bryan has actually arrived at that point, where he believes the barrel is a necessary part of politics, as shown by the offer he makes for a platform.

Bryan might be so kind, if he dared, to offer the Republican party money not to nominate a candidate this year.

DIED

DIED—At his home on Isaac's Creek, near Good Hope, of typhoid fever, on Sunday, Feb. 14, 1904, Lee McGahan, aged 53 years, 5 months and 14 days. Interment at Good Hope Masonic cemetery.

Mr. McGahan was a successful farmer who was born in Harrison County and spent his life here. He married Miss Amanda Myers, daughter of George Myers, who with three sons, Homer, Ray and Mortimer, and four daughters, Mrs. Ida Caynor, Misses Clara, Jane and Maud, survive him. He was a kind and affectionate husband and father and a good neighbor. None know him but to love him; none named him but to praise. He united with the Davison's Run Baptist church when nineteen years of age, and afterward transferred his membership to Mt. Carmel Baptist church, of which he was a consistent member at the time of his death. He was conscientious, honest and upright in all his business transactions, and passed into the Great Beyond with that beautiful peace and hope, which the world can neither give nor take away, comforting the mourning one at his bedside, telling them not to weep, that all must go, and he was willing and ready. Loved ones, let not your hearts be troubled. He has only gone before. "Where eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him," and as David said in regard to the death of his son, he can not return to you, but you can go to him. May that Father of love and mercy, who doth not afflict willingly, nor grieve the children of men, and who doeth all things well, comfort and bind up your torn and bleeding hearts, and help you to say "Thy will, not mine, be done." Truly blessed are the dead, who die in the Lord, from henceforth. Yet, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them.
